borned in Busan, South Korea in 1980

Hyun Jun YANG borned in Busan, South Korea in 1980. He graduated with Korean Art Painting at Busan Silla University in 1996. He started his painting since childhood and keep continuing until now. Hyun Jun uses traditional Korean paper called Hanji. He draws on Hanji with gouache many times, which makes the bottom color emerge. The repetitive vertical brush touches doesn't exist in reality, which is an image. It represents old films or distorted images of the reality. And the runny nose is a symbol of childhood with epoxy and looks like kind of sculpture.

Hyun Jun have no heartrending emotions and memories toward his father of his childhood. His childhood is rubbed in his works. But only maternal love and yearning toward his mother are melted harmonized with the way his life goes.

One of the keynotes of Hyun Jun's artworks is 'humanism,' his artwork is based on it and the theme is family. Since 2013, that 'humanism' has been appearing as the ceaseless subject of him.

The family which the artist expressed in his work is a reliable shield and at the same time a place to find peace with his mother as central figure. One of the subjective characteristic in his work is showing the image of family with mother as material. A girl is representing his mother and an animal with her is a self-reflection.

Both of the girl and the animal are at the imaginary world. The artist expressed his life philosophy about life. Family is taking care if him, its always somebody to be with him and he is not alone. When the time is hard, the family community is turned to be a strong fence and, when the time is settled, it turned to be a doubtlessly peaceful nest.
